

Assumptions

1. One passenger can only be allocated one cabin.
2. Only one guardian is assigned for a minor even though they may have more than one onboard the cruise.
3. Not every ship needs to be assigned a cruise. For example, a ship that's currently under maintenance or is being prepared for a cruise but hasn't been assigned one yet.
4. A cabin can have many bookings from different cruises, but only one booking per cruise.
5. The ship max guest capacity is assumed to be a calculated attribute because it can be derived from the number of cabins and their capacity.
